

Hugh Wesley Carrington, Ph.D.

Author | Keynote Speaker | Consultant | Solutionist
Change Management Specialist

Hugh helps organizations optimize performance through training and development of their members at all levels and the streamlining of organizational processes. As Founder of Bridge, Inc. and an accomplished, dynamic speaker, he blends his love of education, the study of people and research into his process-driven approach to organizational learning and development. Before anything else, Hugh is a Christian who believes in the power of prayer.

In addition to leading Bridge, Inc., Hugh is currently also an Adjunct Professor at Long Island University in the School of Business, Department of Social Work, and the Department of Sociology and Anthropology.

While Bridge, Inc. was not “bottled” and made widely available until October of 2014, it had its beginnings in 1996. As a Ph.D. student and newly elected youth leader at a local church in Virginia, Hugh made a presentation to the church about a holistic approach to youth ministry. The innovative and engaging presentation was a new way of thinking about and implementing youth programming. After the presentation, a parent remarked, “You must be in organizational development.” He was not at the time, but he is now.

His book, Inevitable & Imminent: On Becoming a House of Prayer — The Process, draws on his scholarship in sociology and business to outline the process of how spiritual leaders and their congregations can elevate prayer in the life of a church and the individual Christian. His second book, The Church@Prayer: 52 Weeks at the Throne of Grace, is a practical guide containing 52 essays on the transforming influence of prayer. He’s currently working on his third book: PrayerCharged: Your Ten-Minute Daily Devotional.

Hugh has held several departmental positions in local churches of a denomination that numbers over 20 million worldwide. He is a frequent presenter at local churches and related events and has had the opportunity to observe how we as Christians approach prayer. He has had the opportunity to implement what he teaches, including his signature House of Prayer process, and knows that it works.

Hugh holds a Masters of Science in Human Resource Management from Long Island University, a Ph.D. in Sociology from American University in Washington, D.C., a Masters of Arts in Higher Education Administration and a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Marketing Education from The Ohio State University in Columbus, Ohio.

Hugh resides in Stamford, Connecticut, and is married to the former Maxine Cenac. He is the adoring father of two children, Serina Jordan Carrington and Hugh Wesley Carrington, Jr.

"Great company to work with. Very spiritual." —Dexter Christian

"Your style of teaching is crystal clear, and your presentation of the material was always in a way that encouraged us to think instead of just throwing out the information." —Workshop Participant

"Phenomenal experience this past weekend. If Dr. Carrington has not come into the doors of your church...Now is the TIME!" —Maria Johnson

"I'm told that the reason why professional athletes have coaches is to provide a personal nudge. From my perspective, based on my first consultation with Dr. Carrington, regarding publishing a book, he is a "Coach". I left that conversation with insight on my next steps in the art of publishing a book. Thank you, Dr. Carrington." —Dr. Avis Hendrickson

"Dr. Carrington, your spiritual insights on prayer was a breath of fresh air. I truly was inspired and prayer motivated as I listened to your presentations at my church, Shiloh SDA in Petersburg, VA. I journaled various of your prayer pointers and shared them with some friends. As I shared, it deepened the impact of your presentation. That's why I could smile so broadly as I held your book. May God Bless you, as you build up His Prayer Kingdom." —Elder Helen Peace

"Today's workshop was phenomenal and INCLUSIVE! Of the 3 activities, two and three were the most impacting. Dr. Carrington deserves an applause. Thank you for coordinating and facilitating these worthwhile opportunities. May the universe continue to increase you and your work." —Brooke Durrah

"Well that's what God wants us to do, to be effective in whatever we do in ministry. It was a very good seminar, thanks Dr. Carrington." —Lusca Gabriel

"I'm so grateful for Bridge Press because I was given the tools that I needed to organize a successful book launch. I was excited about my first book launch, but I had no idea how to do it. Bridge Press walked me through every step of the process. They taught me about various ways I could market my book. I was very impressed by their patience and dedication to helping me achieve my goals." —Michellene Barrett
